As referenced in Our Values and Ethics at Work Reference Guide, the following are summaries of the false claims acts and similar laws of the states in which CHI hospitals operate. This list will be updated from time to time as additional states implement such laws.

ARKANSAS

What is the Arkansas Medicaid Fraud False Claims Act, Arkansas Medicaid Fraud Act & Arkansas Whistle-Blower Act?

The Arkansas Medicaid Fraud False Claims Act (“AMFFCA”) (Ark. Code Ann. §§ 20-77-901 to 20-77-911) is a civil statute that helps the state combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud in the Arkansas Medicaid program. The AMFFCA became effective on April 4, 2011. In addition, Arkansas has a criminal statute, the Arkansas Medicaid Fraud Act (“AMFA”) (Ark. Code Ann. §§ 5-55-101 to 5-55-114), which provides for criminal sanctions in cases of Medicaid fraud. The AMFA became effective on December 31, 2005.

Violations of the AMFFCA include: (1) knowingly making or causing to be made any false statement or representation of a material fact in any application for any benefit or payment under the Arkansas Medicaid Program; (2) at any time knowingly makes or causes to be made any false statement or representation of a material fact for use in determining rights to a benefit or payment; (3) having knowledge of the occurrence of any event affecting his or her initial or continued right to any benefit or payment or the initial or continued right to any benefit or payment of any other individual in whose behalf he or she has applied for or is receiving a benefit or payment, knowingly conceals or fails to disclose that event with an intent fraudulently to secure the benefit or payment either in a greater amount or quantity than is due or when no benefit or payment is authorized; (4) knowingly converting a benefit to a use other than for the use and benefit of another person; (3) knowingly presenting a Medicaid claim for a physician’s services while knowing that the individual who furnished the service was not licensed as a physician; (5) knowingly soliciting or receiving any remuneration (kickback, bribe, or rebate) in exchange for referrals or recommendations; (6) knowingly charging in excess of the established rates or requiring additional payment as a condition of admission or continued stay; (7) knowingly makes or causes to be made any false statement or representation of a material fact in any application for benefits or for payment in violation of the rules, regulations, and provider agreements issued by the program or its fiscal agents; or (8) knowingly: (A) participates, directly or indirectly, in the Arkansas Medicaid Program after having pleaded guilty or nolo contendere to or been found guilty of a charge of Medicaid fraud, theft of public benefits, or abuse of adults as defined in the Arkansas Criminal Code; or (B) as a certified health provider enrolled in the Arkansas Medicaid Program, or the fiscal agent of such a provider who employs, engages as an independent contractor, engages as a consultant, or otherwise permits the participation in the business activities of such a provider, any person who has pleaded guilty or nolo contendere to or has been found guilty of a charge of Medicaid fraud, theft of public benefits, or abuse of adults as defined in the Arkansas Criminal Code.

Actions that violate the AMFA include the actions listed above under the AMFFCA except where there is a lower intent standard. A person must act “knowingly” under the AMFFCA in order for a violation to occur. Knowingly means a person has actual knowledge or acts in deliberate ignorance or reckless disregard of the truth. In contrast, the AMFA requires that a person act “purposely,” which means that a person had a “conscious object” to engage in unlawful conduct. In addition, participation in the Medicaid program after being found guilty or pleading guilty or no contest in a Medicaid fraud charge is considered illegal Medicaid participation under the AMFA.
What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The AMFFCA and AMFA do not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state. However, both statutes allow individuals who report fraud to the Arkansas Attorney General to receive up to 10% of the total amount recovered, but in no case no more than $100,000.

The AMFFCA and AMFA protect individuals who provide records to the state from civil or criminal liability.

Like federal law, the Arkansas Whistle-Blower Act (Ark. Code. Ann. §§ 21-1-601 to 21-1-608) prohibits public employers from discharging, discriminating, threatening or retaliating against public employees because of their: (1) good faith disclosure of information about a waste of public funds, property or manpower, or a suspected violation of a law, rule or regulation; (2) lawful participation in a false claims inquiry or administrative review; or (3) their refusal to assist employers in violating laws such as the Arkansas Medicaid Fraud False Claims Act and the Medicaid Fraud Act. Arkansas law does not appear to contain similar protections for non-public employees.

What are the Penalties?
A civil action filed under the AMFFCA may not be brought more than five years after the date on which the violation of the Act is committed. Penalties of actual damages, plus a fine of $5,000 to $10,000 per claim and treble damages may be imposed for AMFFCA violations. However, the court may not assess more than two times the amount of damages which the state sustained because of the acts of the violator. In addition, any person violating the AMFFCA shall be liable for the Attorney General’s reasonable expenses, including the cost of investigation, attorney’s fees, court costs, witness fees and deposition fees. A violator may also be suspended from Medicaid or have its provider agreement revoked. Penalties of full restitution, a mandatory fine of three times the total amount of the false claims, and a fine of up to $3,000 per claim may be imposed under the AMFA.

Violation of the AMFA is also a Class A misdemeanor if the amount of violation is under $200, a Class C felony if the amount is between $200 and $2,500, and a Class B felony if the amount is over $2,500. Illegal participation in the Medicaid program is a Class A misdemeanor for the first offense, a Class D felony for the second offense and a Class C felony for the third and subsequent offenses.

COLORADO

What is the Colorado Medicaid False Claims Act?
The Colorado Medicaid False Claims Act (“CMFCA”) is a civil statute which is designed to eliminate waste, fraud and abuse in the State’s Medicaid program. (Colo. Stat. Ann. §§ 25.5-4-303.5 to 25.5-4-310). The CMFCA became effective on May 26, 2010.

Violations of CMFCA include: (1) knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, to an officer or employee of the state a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim; (3) having possession, custody, or control of property or money used, or to be used, by the state in connection with the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act” and knowingly delivering, or causing to be delivered, less than all of the money or property; (4) authorizing the making or delivery of a document certifying receipt of property used, or to be used, by the state in connection with the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act” and, intending to defraud the state, making or delivering the receipt without completely knowing that the information on the receipt is true; (5) knowingly buying, or receiving as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property from an officer or employee of the state in connection with the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act” who lawfully may not sell or pledge the property; (6) knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state in connection with the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act”, or knowingly concealing or knowingly and improperly avoiding or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state in connection with the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act”; and (7) conspiring to commit a violation of any of the acts labeled (1) to (6) above.

Like federal law, the CMFCA includes a civil investigative demand provision. The CMFCA also grants the Colorado Attorney General a broad investigative power to subpoena documents and testimony prior to the filing of a lawsuit.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The CMFCA contains provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) to file a lawsuit to enforce the CMFCA on behalf of the state, so long as it is not brought after the later of six years after the violation was committed or more than three years after the date when facts material to the right of action are known or reasonably should have been known by the official of the state charged with responsibility to act in the circumstances, but in no event more than ten years after the date on which the violation is committed. Once filed, the state may elect to intervene and conduct the lawsuit. If the Attorney General conducts the lawsuit, the qui tam plaintiff shall receive between 15% and 25% of the proceeds from the action or settlement of the claim, depending on the extent to which the qui tam plaintiff substantially contributed to the prosecution of the action. If the court determines the action is based primarily on disclosures of specific information from hearings, government audits, or from the news media, and not based on information provided by the qui tam plaintiff, the court will award the qui tam plaintiff no more than 10% of the proceeds from the action or settlement of the claim.

The CMFCA protects employees who are discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, or in any other manner discriminated against in terms and conditions of their employment, because they took lawful steps to disclose information with regard to a CMFCA suit. Such employees are entitled to damages and other relief, including reinstatement with the same seniority status the employee would have had but for the discrimination, twice the amount of back pay, and interest on the pay back, special damages sustained as a result of the discrimination, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees. Private actions for retaliation may not be brought more than three years after the date on which the retaliation occurred.

What are the penalties?
The CMFCA establishes per claim financial penalties of $5,500 to $11,000, plus three times the amount of damages that the state sustains because of the act of that violation. In addition, persons found to have violated the CMFCA are liable to the state or to the qui tam plaintiff for the costs of the action. If a court finds that the person who committed the violation cooperated with the state investigation of the violation, including furnishing the state with all information known about the violation within 30 days, the court may lower the amount to two times the amount of damages sustained by the state.

IDAHO

What is the Idaho Public Assistance Law?
While Idaho does not have a false claims statute that parallels the federal law in structure, Idaho utilizes various rules that collectively accomplishes a similar goal. The Idaho Public Assistance Law (“IPAL”) prohibits providers who contract with the Medicaid program from using fraudulent practices to obtain Medicaid payments to which the provider is not entitled. (Idaho Code Ann. §§ 56-209h(6) to 56-209h(10); 56-227 to 56-227B.

1 Except that these upper and lower limits on liability shall automatically increase to equal the civil penalty allowed under the Federal False Claims Act, if and as the penalties in such federal act may be adjusted for inflation.
A provider engages in fraudulent practices and violates the IPAL Section 56-209h(6) when he or she (1) submits a claim with knowledge that the claim is incorrect, including reporting costs as allowable which were known to be disallowed in a previous audit, unless the provider clearly indicates that the item is being claimed to establish the basis for an appeal and each disputed item and amount is specifically identified; (2) submits a fraudulent claim; (3) knowingly makes a false statement or representation of material fact in any document required to be maintained or submitted to the Department of Health and Welfare (the "Department"); (4) submits a claim for an item or service known to be medically unnecessary; (5) fails to provide, upon written request by the department, immediate access to documentation required to be maintained; (6) fails repeatedly or substantially to comply with the rules and regulations governing medical assistance payments or other public assistance program payments; (7) Knowingly violates any material term or condition of its provider agreement; (8) has failed to repay, or was a “managing employee” or had an “ownership or control interest” in any entity that has failed to repay, any overpayments or claims previously found to have been obtained contrary to statute, rule, regulation or provider agreement; or (9) has been found, or was a “managing employee” in any entity which has been found, to have engaged in fraudulent conduct or abusive conduct in connection with the delivery of health care or public assistance items or services. Further, the IPAL Section 56-227A states it shall be unlawful for any provider or person, knowingly, with intent to defraud, by means of a willfully false statement or representation or by deliberate concealment of any material fact, or any other fraudulent scheme or device, to: (a) present for allowance or payment any false or fraudulent claim for furnishing services or supplies; or (b) attempt to obtain or to obtain authorization for furnishing services or supplies; or (c) attempt to obtain or to obtain compensation from public funds greater than that to which he is legally entitled for services or supplies furnished or purportedly furnished.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The IPAL laws described above do not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state.

However, the Idaho Protection of Public Employees Act prohibits retaliation, discrimination or harassment of employees who report a violation of state law or who cooperate in any investigation of waste of public funds, property or manpower, or a violation of a law or regulation. Idaho law does not contain similar protections for non-governmental employees. (Idaho Code Ann. § 6-2102 to 6-2109).

What are the penalties?
Violations of IPAL Section 56-209h(6) are a civil violation. Penalties include civil monetary penalties against a provider and any officer, director, owner, and/or managing employee of a provider for a violation. The amount of the penalties shall be up to one thousand dollars ($1,000) for each item or service improperly claimed, except that in the case of multiple penalties the Department may reduce the penalties to not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the amount of each item or service improperly claimed if an amount can be readily determined. Each line item of a claim, or cost on a cost report is considered a separate claim. These penalties are intended to be remedial, recovering at a minimum the costs of investigation and administrative review, and placing the costs associated with noncompliance on the offending provider. Violations of IPAL Section 56-227A are a felony, and such violators may be prosecuted under any other provision of the criminal code.

Any individual or entity convicted of a criminal offense related to the delivery of an item or service under any state or federal program shall be excluded from program participation as a Medicaid provider for a period of not less than ten (10) years. The Department may exclude any individual or entity for a period of not less than one (1) year for any conduct for which the secretary of the department of health and human services or designee could exclude an individual or entity. The Department may sanction individuals or entities by barring them from public assistance programs for intentional program violations where the federal law allows sanctioning individuals from receiving assistance. Individuals or entities who are determined to have committed an intentional program violation will be sanctioned from receiving public assistance for a period of twelve (12) months for the first violation, twenty-four (24) months for the second violation and permanently for the third violation.

IOWA

What is the Iowa False Claims Act & Iowa Medical Assistance Act?
The Iowa False Claims Act (“IFCA”) (I.C. §§ 685.1 to 685.7) is a civil statute designed to help the state government combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud against public agencies. The Iowa Medical Assistance Act (“IMAA”) (I.C. § 249A.47) additionally deters providers from improperly filing claims by imposing sanctions. The IMAA became effective July 1, 2014.

Violations of the IFCA include: (1) knowingly presenting or causing to be presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly making or using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to false or fraudulent claim; (3) having possession or control over property or money used, or to be used, by the state and delivering less than all of that money or property; (4) an authorized individual making or delivering a document certifying receipt of property used by the state without completely knowing that the information on the receipt is true; (5) knowingly buying public property from an officer or employee of the state or a member of the Iowa national guard who may not sell or pledge property; (6) knowingly concealing or improperly avoiding or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state; and (7) conspiring to commit any of the above violations.

The IMAA deems all of the following scenarios as violations: (a) a person who intentionally and purposefully presents or causes to be presented to the department a claim that the department determines meets any of the following criteria: (1) a claim for medical or other items or services that the provider knows was not provided as claimed, including a claim by any provider who engages in a pattern or practice of presenting or causing to be presented a claim for an item or service that is based on a billing code that the provider knows will result in a greater payment to the provider than the billing code the provider knows is applicable to the item or service actually provided; (2) a claim for medical or other items or services the provider knows to be false or fraudulent; (3) a claim for a physician service or an item or service incident to a physician service by a person who knows that the individual who furnished or supervised the furnishing of the service meets any of the following: (i) was not licensed as a physician; (ii) was licensed as a physician, but such license had been obtained through a misrepresentation of material fact; (iii) represented to the patient at the time the service was furnished that the physician was certified in a medical specialty by a medical specialty board when the individual was not so certified; (4) a claim for medical or other items or services furnished during a period in which the provider was excluded from providing such items or services; (5) a claim for a pattern of medical or other items or services that a provider knows were not medically necessary.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The IFCA contains provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) to file a lawsuit to enforce the IFCA on behalf of the state. Once filed, the Iowa Attorney General may choose to intervene and conduct the lawsuit. If the Attorney General conducts the lawsuit, the qui tam plaintiff shall receive between 15% and 25% of the proceeds from the action or settlement of the claim, depending on the extent to which the qui tam plaintiff contributes to the prosecution of the lawsuit. Furthermore, the state has the authority to limit the plaintiff’s participation if it would interfere or unduly delay the state’s prosecution of the case. If the court determines the action is based primarily on disclosures of specific information from hearings, government audits, or from the news media, and not based on information provided by the qui tam plaintiff, the court will award the qui tam plaintiff no more than 10% of the proceeds from the action or settlement of the claim. If the Attorney General does not conduct the lawsuit, the qui tam plaintiff may pursue the lawsuit and, if successful, shall receive between 25% and 30% of the proceeds from the action or settlement, and shall have reasonable and necessary court costs and attorney fees reimbursed by the defendant.
The IFCA protects employees, contractors, or agents who are discharged, demoted, suspended, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against in terms of their employment, because they took lawful acts to stop a violation of the IFCA. Such employees, contractors, or agents are entitled to all relief necessary to make them whole, including reinstatement with the seniority status they would have had, two times the amount of back pay, interest on the back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result of the discrimination. A civil action under the IFCA may not be brought more than three years after the date when the retaliation occurred.

What are the Penalties?

The IFCA establishes financial penalties of $5,000 to $10,000 for each violation plus three times the amount of damages sustained by the state as a result of the violation. In addition, persons found to have violated the IFCA are liable to the state or to the qui tam plaintiff for the costs of the action. If a court finds that the person who committed the violation cooperated with the state investigation of the violation, including furnishing the state with all information known about the violation within 30 days, the court may lower the amount to two times the amount of damages sustained by the state.

The IMAA provides a civil penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for each item or service.

Additionally, violating any provision of the IFCA, IMAA, any rule promulgated pursuant thereto, or any federal or state false claims act is considered appropriate grounds for the Iowa Department of Human Services (the “Department”) to impose sanctions against any person (any individual human being, company, provider, provider affiliate, or other legal entity). Sanctions may include probation, suspension or termination for participation in the medical assistance program, suspension of payments in whole or in part, prior authorization of services, and review of claims prior to payment. The Department shall consider the totality of the circumstances in determining sanctions to be imposed, based on several enumerated factors. Iowa Admin. Code r. 441-79.2(249A)(79.2)(1)-(2).

KANSAS

What is the Kansas False Claims Act, the Kansas Medicaid Fraud Control Act & the Kansas Fraudulent Insurance Act?

The Kansas False Claims Act (“KFCA”) is a civil statute which is designed to help the state government combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud against the state, or any political subdivision of the state. (Kan. Stat. Ann. §§ 75-7501 to 75-7511). The KFCA became effective on April 30, 2009. In addition, Kansas has a Medicaid Fraud Control Act (“KMFCA”) which became effective on July 1, 2011 (Kan. Stat. Ann. § 21-5925 to 21-5934; 75-725; 75-726). Kansas also enacted the Kansas Fraudulent Insurance Act (“KFIA”) (Kan. Stat. Ann. § 40-2, 118-118a) which became effective on July 1, 2011.

Violations of the KFCA include: (1) knowingly submitting a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval to any recipient of State or local funds; (2) knowingly making or using a false record to get a false claim paid; (3) making or using a false record to avoid payments owed to the state government or a political subdivision of the state; (4) delivering less property or money to the state government or a political subdivision of the state than the amount for which the person receives a certificate or receipt; (5) knowingly making or delivering a receipt that falsely represents the property received by the state government or a political subdivision of the state; (6) knowingly buying or receiving public property from any person who is not allowed to sell or pledge the property; (7) failing to disclose and arrange for repayment of a false claim when the person who discovers the falsity of the claim is a beneficiary; and (8) conspiring to commit any of the actions (1) through (7) listed above.

Violations of the KMFCA involve, with the intent to defraud, making, presenting, submitting, offering or causing to be made, presented, submitted or offered: (A) any false or fraudulent claim for payment for any goods, service, item, facility [or] accommodation for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (B) any false or fraudulent statement or representation for use in determining payments which may be made, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (C) any false or fraudulent report or filing which is or may be used in computing or determining a rate of payment for any goods, service, item, facility or accommodation, for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (D) any false or fraudulent statement or representation made in connection with any report or filing which is or may be used in computing or determining a rate of payment for any goods, service, item, facility or accommodation, for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, knowing the statement or representation to be false, in whole or in part, by commission or omission, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (F) any claim for payment, for any goods, service, item, facility, or accommodation, which is not medically necessary in accordance with professionally recognized parameters or as otherwise required by law, for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (G) any wholly or partially false or fraudulent book, record, document, data or instrument, which is required to be kept or which is kept as documentation for any goods, service, item, facility or accommodation or of any cost or expense claimed for reimbursement for any goods, service, item, facility or accommodation for which payment is, has been, or can be sought, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program, whether or not the claim is allowed or allowable; (H) any wholly or partially false or fraudulent book, record, document, data or instrument to any properly identified law enforcement officer, any properly identified employee or authorized representative of the attorney general, or to any properly identified employee or agent of the Kansas department for aging and disability services, Kansas department of health and environment, or its fiscal agent, in connection with any audit or investigation involving any claim for payment or rate of payment for any goods, service, item, facility or accommodation payable, in whole or in part, under the Medicaid program; (I) any false or fraudulent statement or representation made, with the intent to influence any acts or decision of any official, employee or agent of a state or federal agency having regulatory or administrative authority over the Medicaid program; or (J) intentionally executing or attempting to execute a scheme or artifice to defraud the Medicaid program or any contractor or subcontractor thereof.

Violations of the KFIA include “an act committed by any person who, knowingly and with intent to defraud, presents, causes to be presented or prepares with knowledge or belief that it will be presented to or by an insurer, purported insurer, broker or any agent thereof, any written, electronic, electronic impulse, facsimile, magnetic, oral or telephonic communication or statement (or a written statement) as part of, or in support of, an application for the issuance of, or the rating of an insurance policy for personal or commercial insurance, or a claim for payment or other benefit pursuant to an insurance policy for commercial or personal insurance which such person knows to contain materially false information concerning any fact material thereto; or conceals, for the purpose of misleading, information concerning any fact material thereto.”

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The KFCA does not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state. A portion of the proceeds obtained from successful actions is remitted to the defrauded entity, and the remaining proceeds are retained by the State or used to refund money falsely obtained from the Federal government.

The KMFCA protects employees who assist the state in taking action under the KFCA from retaliation, and entitles them to all relief necessary to make them whole.

2 K.S.A. 40-2,118a.
3 K.S.A. 40-2,118.
The KFIA does not contain such provisions.

What are the Penalties?
In addition to any other remedies that may be prescribed by law, a person who violates the KFCA will be liable for (1) a civil penalty of $1,000 to $11,000 per claim, (2) damages in the amount of three times the amount of the false claim, and (3) the state’s reasonable costs and attorney fees for the civil action brought to recover penalties or damages. Liability under the KFCA is joint and several for any act committed by two or more persons. The courts must reduce damages for violations if the false claims are voluntarily disclosed.

In addition to any other criminal penalties provided by law, any person convicted of a violation of the KMFCA may be liable for all of the following: (1) payment of full restitution of the amount of the excess payments; (2) payment of interest on the amount of any excess payments at the maximum legal rate in effect on the date the payment was made to the person for the period from the date upon which payment was made, to the date upon which repayment is made; and (3) payment of all reasonable expenses that have been necessarily incurred in the enforcement of the KMFCA including, but not limited to, the costs of the investigation, litigation and attorney fees. In addition to any other criminal penalties provided by law, any person convicted of a violation of the KMFCA shall, upon request of the Attorney General at any time prior to sentencing, be subject to a fine of not less than $1,000 and not more than $11,000 for each violation of such act. Penalties provided by the KMFCA “are not intended to be exclusive remedies and do not preclude the use of any other criminal or civil remedy.”

Each individual count of Medicaid fraud, defined in sections (A)-(G) and (J) under the KMFCA, is classified as follows: (i) a severity level 3, nonperson felony if the payments illegally claimed are $250,000 or more; (ii) a severity level 5, nonperson felony if the payments illegally claimed are between $100,000 and $250,000; (iii) a severity level 7, nonperson felony if the payments illegally claimed are between $25,000 and $100,000; (iv) a severity level 9 nonperson felony if the payments illegally claimed are between $1,000 and $25,000; and (v) a class A nonperson misdemeanor if the payments illegally claimed are less than $1,000. Additionally, when great bodily harm results from such a fraudulent act, regardless of the aggregate amount of payments illegally claimed, Medicaid fraud is classified as a severity level 4, person felony; and when death results from such a fraudulent act, regardless of the aggregate amount of payments illegally claimed, Medicaid fraud is a severity level 1, person felony. When Medicaid fraud, as defined in (H)-(I) of the KMFCA occurs, it is considered a severity level 9, nonperson felony. The KMFCA also provides that a person who violates the provisions of the KMFCA may also be prosecuted for, convicted of, and punished for any form of battery or homicide. Kan. Stat. Ann. § 21-5927.

Violations of the KFIA are considered to be “a severity level 6, nonperson felony if the amount involved is $25,000 or more; a severity level 7, nonperson felony if the amount is at least $5,000 but less than $25,000; a severity level 8, nonperson felony if the amount is at least $1,000 but less than $5,000; and a class C nonperson misdemeanor if the amount is less than $1,000. Any combination of fraudulent acts as defined in subsection (a) which occurs in a period of six consecutive months which involves $25,000 or more shall have a presumptive sentence of imprisonment regardless of its location on the sentencing grid block.” Furthermore, in addition to any other penalty, a person who violates the KFIA shall be ordered to make restitution to the insurer or any other person or entity for any financial loss sustained as a result of such violation.

4 Proposed legislation (House Bill 2092) would amend this amount to $1,500.

5 Proposed legislation (House Bill 2092) would amend this amount to $1,500.
Violations of the KCFA include: (1) knowingly or wantonly devising a scheme, entering into an agreement, or conspiring to obtain payments from medical assistance programs by means of false claims, reports or documents submitted to health and family services, or intentionally engage in conduct which advances the scheme or artifice; (2) intentionally, knowingly, or wantonly falsifying information used in determining rights to any benefit or payment; (3) misrepresenting the conditions or operations of a facility to qualify as a certified institution; and (4) knowingly falsify, conceal, or cover up by any trick, scheme, or device a material fact, or make any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation, or make or use any false writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or entry.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The KCFA does not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state. However, like the federal act, the Kentucky Attorney General may commence proceedings to enforce the KCFA.

The KCFA includes special whistleblower protection to protect employees who report or testify regarding potential violations of the KCFA from discharge, discrimination, or retaliation.

6 The implementing regulations issued by the Cabinet for Health and Family Services – Department for Medicaid Services expands upon this notion as follows: “Unacceptable practice” means conduct by a provider which constitutes “fraud” or “provider abuse” as defined in KRS 205.8451(2) or (8), or willful misrepresentation, and includes the following practices: (a) Knowingly submitting, or causing the submission of false claims, or inducing, or seeking to induce, a person to submit false claims; (b) Knowingly making, or causing to be made, or inducing, or seeking to induce, a false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or misrepresentation of material fact in claiming a Medicaid payment, or for use in determining the right to payment; (c) Having knowledge of an event that affects the right of a provider to receive payment and concealing or failing to disclose the event or other material omission with the intention that a payment be made or the payment is made in a greater amount than otherwise owed; (d) Conversion; (e) Soliciting or accepting bribes or kickbacks; (f) Failing to maintain or to make available, for purposes of audit or investigation, administrative and medical records necessary to fully disclose the medical necessity for the nature and extent of the medical care, services and supplies furnished, or to comply with other requirements established in 907 KAR 1:673, Section 2; (g) Knowingly submitting a claim or accepting payment for medical care, services, or supplies furnished by a provider who has been terminated or excluded from the program; (h) Seeking or accepting additional payments, for example, gifts, money, donations, or other consideration, in addition to the amount paid or payable under the Medicaid Program for covered medical care, services, or supplies; (i) Charging or agreeing to charge or collect a fee from a recipient for services which is in addition to amounts paid by the Medicaid Program, except for required copayments or recipient liability, if any, required by the Medicaid Program; (j) Engaging in conspiracy, complicity, or criminal syndication; (k) Furnishing medical care, services, or supplies that fail to meet professionally recognized standards, or which are found to be noncompliant with licensure standards promulgated under KRS Chapter 216B and failing to correct the deficiencies or violation as reported to the department by the Office of Inspector General, for health care or which are beyond the scope of the provider’s professional qualifications or license; (l) Discriminating in the furnishing of medical care, services, or supplies as prohibited by 42 U.S.C. 2000d; (m) Having payments made to or through a factor, either directly or by power of attorney, as prohibited by 42 CFR 447.10; (n) Offering or providing a premium or inducement to a recipient to return the recipient’s patronage of the provider or other provider to receive medical care, services or supplies under the Medicaid Program; (o) Knowingly failing to meet disclosure requirements; (p) Unbundling as defined under subsection (40) of this section; (q) An act committed by a nonprovider on behalf of a provider which, if committed by a provider, would result in the termination of the provider’s enrollment in the program. 907 Ky. Admin. Regs. § 1:671(Section 1)(40). Section 3 of the regulations sets forth the administrative process for identification and referral of unacceptable practices as defined by this part. Sections 4-6 of the regulations set forth possible consequences and sanctions, which include but are not limited to possible termination of a provider’s participation and a period of exclusion if an administrative determination is made, that provider engaged in an unacceptable practice. 907 Ky. Admin. Regs. § 1:671(Section 5)(4)-(6).
Additionally, the KCFA has a mandatory reporting provision which requires any person who knows or has reasonable cause to believe a violation of the KCFA has occurred, to report the information to the Kentucky Medicaid Fraud Control Unit or Hotline.

What are the Penalties?
The criminal penalties for violating the KFCA include the following: A provider who violates subsections (1) and (2) are guilty of a Class A misdemeanor. However, in the event that the sum of all the benefits or payments claimed reaches three hundred dollars ($300)\(^7\), the violation is classified Class D felony. Further, a provider who violates subsection (3) is guilty of a Class C felony. Lastly, any provider who violates the provisions of subsection (4) is guilty of a Class D felony.

The civil penalties for violating the KFCA include the following: (1) restitution plus interest; (2) up to three times the amount of the excess payments; (3) $500 fine for each fraudulent claim submitted; and (4) payment of legal, investigation, and enforcement fees; and (5) be removed as a participating provider in the Medical Assistance Program for 2 months to 6 months for a first offense, for 6 months to 1 year for a second offense, and for 1 year to 5 years for a third offense. MARYLAND

What is the Maryland False Health Claims Act, Maryland Medicaid Fraud Statute & the Maryland False Claims Act?
The Maryland False Health Claims Act ("MFHCA") is a civil statute designed to help Maryland combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud against a state health plan or state health program. (MD. Code Ann., Health-Gen. §§ 2-601 to 2-611). The MFHCA became effective on October 1, 2010. In addition, Maryland provides for criminal penalties in the event a person commits Medicaid Fraud (MD. Code Ann., Crim. Law § 8-508 to § 8-519). The Medicaid Fraud provisions became effective on October 1, 2002. The Maryland False Claims Act ("MFCA") is broader in scope than the previous Maryland laws described, as it is not limited to just Medicaid and other healthcare-related fraud. (MD Gen. Provis. § 8-101 to § 8-111). The MFCA became effective on June 1, 2015.

Violations of MFHCA include: (1) presenting or causing to be presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) making or using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim; (3) conspiring to commit a violation under MFCHA; (4) delivering or causing to be delivered to the state less than all the money or property to be used by or on behalf of the state under a state health plan or state health program; (5) defrauding the state by preparing or delivering a document certifying receipt of money or other property used or to be used by the state under a state health or a state health program that falsely represents the money or property delivered; (6) buying public property from an officer or employee of the state health plan or state health program who lawfully may not sell the property; (7) making or using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay the state or local government; (8) concealing or improperly avoiding or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or other property to the state; or (9) making any other false or fraudulent claims against a state health plan or a state health program.

Violations of the Medicaid Fraud laws include defrauding state health plans by: (1) knowingly and willfully defrauding or attempt to defraud a State health plan in connection with the delivery of or payment for a health care service; (2) knowingly and willfully obtaining or attempt to obtain by means of a false representation money, property, or anything of value in connection with the delivery of or payment for a health care service that wholly or partly is reimbursed by or is a required benefit of a state health plan; (3) knowingly and willfully defrauding or attempt to defraud a state health plan of the right to honest services; or (4) with the intent to defraud making a false representation relating to a health care service or a state health plan. Further, a violation of the Medicaid Fraud laws includes a false representation for qualification by knowingly and willfully making, causing to be made, inducing, or attempt to induce the making of a false representation with respect to the conditions or operation of a facility, institution, or state health plan in order to help the facility, institution, or State health plan qualify to receive reimbursement under a state health plan.

A person’s actions may be subject to discipline under the MFCA if they: (1) knowingly present or cause to be presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly make, use, or cause to be made or used a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim; (3) conspire to commit a violation under this title; (4) have possession, custody, or control of money or other property used or to be used by or on behalf of a governmental entity and knowingly deliver or cause to be delivered to the governmental entity less than all of that money or other property; (5)(i) be authorized to make or deliver a receipt or other document certifying receipt of money or other property used or to be used by a governmental entity; and (ii) make or deliver a receipt or document intending to defraud the governmental entity, knowing that the information contained in the receipt or document is not true; (6) knowingly buy or receive as a pledge of an obligation or a debt publicly owned property from an officer, employee, or agent of a governmental entity who lawfully may not sell or pledge the property; (7) knowingly make, use, or cause to be made or used a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or other property to a governmental entity; (8) knowingly conceal, or knowingly and improperly avoid or decrease, an obligation to pay or transmit money or other property to a governmental entity, including misrepresenting the time at which a trade was made to make the transaction appear less favorable; or (9) knowingly make any other false or fraudulent claim against a governmental entity.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The MFHCA contains provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) to file a lawsuit to enforce MFHCA, in the name of the State. However, the State must choose whether to intervene and continue the lawsuit once a complaint is filed. If the State declines to join a case initiated by a relator, the case must be dismissed and there are no relator’s rights under the statute. Also, the State may withdraw after initially intervening, and the case must then also be dismissed. Awards when the Government does intervene are between 15% and 25%. Specified government employees may not bring a claim based on information they learned in their official capacity. If the State chooses not to intervene, the action will be dismissed. If the State chooses to intervene, it will conduct the lawsuit, and, if successful, the qui tam plaintiff will receive between 15% and 25% of the proceeds of any recovery or settlement, based on the qui tam plaintiff’s contribution to the action.

The MFHCA protects employees against retaliatory actions because they took lawful actions in furtherance of an investigation of a potential MFHCA action. Such lawful actions include disclosing or threatening to disclose what the employee reasonably believes is a violation, providing information or testifying regarding an alleged violation, or objecting to or refusing to participate in an activity the employee reasonably believes is a violation. Effected employees may be entitled to reinstatement to the same seniority status and with full fringe benefits and seniority rights, two times the amount of lost wages, benefits, and other remuneration, including interest, payment of reasonable attorneys costs, an injunction against continued violation, punitive damages and the assessment of a civil penalty of up to $1000 for the first violation and up to $5000 for subsequent violations.

The MFCA allows a person to file a civil action in Maryland on behalf of him/herself and the governmental entity against the alleged violator no later than 6 years after the date of the underlying violation occurred, or 3 years after the date when facts material to the right of action are known or reasonably should have been known by the person initiating the action (but in no event more than 10 years after the date of which the underlying violation occurred). Within 60 days of being served with the complaint, material evidence and information, the governmental entity may elect to intervene and proceed with the action. If the governmental entity does not elect to intervene and proceed with the action, the court will dismiss the action. If the governmental entity does intervene and the case prevails, the whistleblower will be awarded an amount that is
(i) not less than 15% and not more than 25% of the proceeds of the action or settlement of the claim; and (ii) proportional to the amount of time and effort that the person substantially contributed to the final resolution of the civil action; and any payments to a whistleblower must come from the proceeds of the action. However, if a court finds that the action is initiated by a whistleblower who planned and initiated or otherwise deliberately participated in the violation on which the action was based, the court may reduce the share of the proceeds. In doing so, the court will consider (i) the role of the person in advancing the case to litigation; and (ii) any relevant circumstances relating to the underlying violation.

The MFCA protects a whistleblower from retaliatory actions when he/she (1) acts lawfully in furtherance of an action filed under the MFCA, including an investigation for, initiation of, testimony for, or assistance in an action filed or to be filed under the MFCA; (2) discloses or threatens to disclose to a supervisor or to a public body an activity, a policy, or a practice of the person that the employee, contractor, or grantee reasonably believes is in violation of the MFCA or its implementing regulation; (3) provides information to, or testifies before, a public body conducting an investigation, a hearing, or an inquiry into a violation of the MFCA or its implementing regulations that is allegedly or actually committed by the person; or (4) objects to or refuses to participate in any activity, policy, or practice that the employee, contractor, or grantee reasonably believes is in violation of the MFCA or its implementing regulations. The MFCA also provides remedies in the event retaliatory actions are taken against the whistleblower. For example, he/she may seek a civil action for an injunction, reinstatement to the same seniority status, reinstatement of full fringe benefits and seniority rights, two times the amount of lost wages, benefits and other remuneration (including interest), payment for reasonable costs and attorney’s fees, punitive damages, civil penalties not exceeding $1,000 for the first violation and not exceeding $5,000 for each subsequent violation, and any other relief necessary to make him/her whole.

What are the Penalties?
The MFHCA establishes financial penalties of up to $10,000 for each violation (but it may not exceed the total amount of damage incurred by the state health plan or state health program) plus up to three times the amount of damages sustained by the state or local government as a result of the violation. In addition, persons found to have violated MFHCA may be liable for the costs of the action.

Penalties under the Medicaid Fraud laws can be triggered if the value of the money, health care services, or other goods or services involved is $1,000 or more in the aggregate. In this case, a convicted person will be guilty of a felony and on conviction will be subject to imprisonment not exceeding 5 years, or a fine not exceeding $100,000 or both. However, a person who violates any other provision of the Medicaid Fraud laws is guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction is subject to imprisonment not exceeding 3 years or a fine not exceeding $50,000 or both. A business entity violating the Medicaid Fraud laws is subject to a fine not exceeding: (i) $250,000 for each felony; and (ii) $100,000 for each misdemeanor.

Under the MFCA, a person who is in violation of the provisions outlined above are liable to the governmental entity for (i) a civil penalty of not more than $10,000 for each violation; and (ii) an additional amount of not more than three times the amount of damages that the governmental entity sustains as a result of the acts of that person in violation of the MFCA. The total amount owed by a person may not be less than the amount of the actual damages the governmental entity incurs as a result of the person’s violation of the MFCA. The penalties provided in the MFCA are in addition to any criminal, civil, or administrative penalties provided under any other State or federal statute or regulation.
MINNESOTA

What is the Minnesota False Claims Against the State Act?

The Minnesota False Claims Against the State Act (“MFCASA”) is a civil statute designed to help Minnesota combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud. (Minn. Stat. §§ 15C.01 to 15C.16). The MFCASA became effective on July 1, 2010.

Violations of the MFCASA involve someone who: (1) knowingly presents, or causes to be presented, a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly makes or uses, or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim; (3) knowingly conspires to commit a violation of clause (1), (2), (4), (5), (6), or (7); (4) has possession, custody, or control of property or money used, or to be used, by the state or a political subdivision and knowingly delivers or causes to be delivered less than all of that money or property; (5) is authorized to make or deliver a document certifying receipt for money or property used, or to be used, by the state or a political subdivision and, intending to defraud the state or a political subdivision, makes or delivers the receipt without completely knowing that the information on the receipt is true; (6) knowingly buys, or receives as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property from an officer or employee of the state or a political subdivision who lawfully may not sell or pledge the property; or (7) knowingly makes or uses, or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or a political subdivision, or knowingly conceals or knowingly and improperly avoids or decreases an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or a political subdivision.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?

The MFCASA contains provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) to file a lawsuit to enforce the MFCASA on behalf of the state or the local government. Once filed, the Minnesota Attorney General or an attorney for a city or county may choose to intervene and conduct the lawsuit. If an attorney for a government entity conducts the lawsuit, the qui tam plaintiff shall receive between 15% and 25% of the proceeds of any recovery, in proportion to which the qui tam plaintiff’s contribution to the action. If the qui tam plaintiff conducts the lawsuit, he or she will receive between 25% and 30% of any recovery, as the court determines reasonable. If an attorney for the government does not intervene in the lawsuit at the outset but intervenes subsequently, the qui tam plaintiff may receive between 15% and 30% of any recovery. In addition, the court may require the defendant to pay reasonable costs, attorney fees, and expert consultant fees to the qui tam plaintiff.

The MFCASA protects employees, contractors or agents who are discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against in terms of their employment, because they took lawful acts done in furtherance of an action under the MFCASA, or other efforts to stop one or more such violations. Such employees, contractors and agents are entitled to reinstatement with the same seniority status that the employee, contractor or agent would have had but for the discrimination, two times the amount of back pay, interest on the back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees. However, a civil action may not be brought more than 3 years after the date when the retaliation occurred.

What are the Penalties?

The MFCASA establishes financial penalties of $5,500 to $11,000 for each violation plus three times the amount of damages sustained by the state or political subdivision as a result of the violation. In addition, persons found to have violated the MFCASA may be liable to the state or to the qui tam plaintiff for the costs of the action. If a court finds that the person who committed the violation cooperated with the state investigation of the violation, including furnishing the state with all information known about the violation within 30 days, the court may lower the amount to two times the amount of damages sustained by the state.
MISSOURI

What is the Missouri Health Improvement Act?
The Missouri Health Improvement Act (“MHIA”) (Mo. Stat. Ann. §§ 191.900 to 191.910) is a comprehensive healthcare bill, which includes provisions designed to help the State combat fraud and abuse in the Missouri Medicaid program. The MHIA became effective on November 1, 2007.

Violations of the MHIA include: (1) knowingly making or causing to be made a false statement or false representation of a material fact to receive payment; (2) knowingly presenting a claim that falsely represents the service was medically necessary; (3) knowingly concealing the occurrence of any event affecting a right to have payment made; (4) knowingly concealing or failing to disclose information with the intent to obtain payment in an amount greater than that which the provider is entitled; and (5) knowingly representing a claim that falsely indicates health care was provided where the service provided was of lesser value than described in the claim.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The MHIA does not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the State. However, the statute allows an individual who is the original source of information used by the Missouri Attorney General to bring a Medicaid fraud action to receive up to 10% of any recovery unless he or she participated in the fraud.

The MHIA protects employees who suffer discrimination as a result of reporting fraud or abuse under the MHIA and entitles them to: (1) reinstatement with the same seniority status, (2) two times the amount of back pay, and (3) interest on the back pay.

What are the Penalties?
A person who violates the MHIA fraud and abuse provisions is liable for both criminal and civil penalties. The criminal penalties include (1) classification as a Class D felony upon the first conviction and referral to the HHS Office of Inspector General; (2) classification as a Class B felony upon the second or subsequent convictions and referral to the HHS Office of Inspector General; (3) classification as a class E felony for any person who willfully prevents, obstructs, misleads, delays, or attempts to prevent, obstruct, mislead, or delay the communication of information or records. The civil penalties include a fine of $5,000 to $10,000 for each separate act plus three times the amount of damages that the State sustains because of the violations. Damages may be reduced to no less than two times the damages if the court finds certain mitigating factors that relate to a person’s cooperation during the investigation.

In addition to any fines, penalties, or sentences imposed by law, a person will be required to make restitution to the federal and state governments, in an amount at least equal to that unlawfully paid to or by the person and be liable for reasonable investigation and prosecution expenses. Additionally, the MHIA states that any person who intentionally files a false report of a MHIA violation is guilty of a class A misdemeanor, any second or subsequent violation is considered a class D felony, and any person who receives any compensation in exchange for knowingly failing to report any MHIA violation is guilty of a class D felony.

NEBRASKA

What is the Nebraska False Medicaid Claims Act?
The Nebraska False Medicaid Claims Act (“FMCA”) is a state law that is designed to provide for the investigation and prosecution of Medicaid fraud. The FMCA sets forth civil penalties for Medicaid fraud and establishes a Medicaid fraud control unit under the Nebraska Attorney General. (Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 68-934 to 68-947). The FMCA became effective on May 30, 2009.
Violations of the FMCA include: (1) knowingly presenting or causing a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval, (2) knowingly makes, uses or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim, (3) conspiring to commit a violation of the FMCA, (4) having possession, custody, or control of property or money used or to be used by the state and knowingly delivers, or causes to be delivered, less than all of the money or property; (5) is authorized to make or deliver a document certifying receipt of property used, or to be used, by the state and, intending to defraud the state, makes or delivers the receipt knowing that the information on the receipt is not true; (6) knowingly buys or receives as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property from any officer or employee of the state who may not lawfully sell or pledge such property; or (7) knowingly makes, uses or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or knowingly conceals, avoids, or decreases an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state.

There are additional actions that are violations of the FMCA, including: (1) failure of a beneficiary to report an inadvertent submission of a false Medicaid claim within sixty days of the discovery that the claim is false, (2) charging, soliciting, accepting, or receiving anything of value in addition to the amount legally payable under the Medicaid program in connection with delivery of a good or service, knowing that such charge, solicitation, acceptance, or receipt is not legally payable, and (3) knowingly failing to maintain the required records for a period of at least six years after the date on which payment was received or knowingly destroying such records within six years from the date payment was received.

The FMCA applies only to Medicaid claims.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The FMCA does not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state.

What are the penalties?
In addition to any other remedies that may be prescribed by law, a person who violates the FMCA will be liable for (1) a civil penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), (2) damages in the amount of three times the amount of the false claim, and (3) the state’s costs and attorney’s fees for the civil action brought to recover penalties or damages. Liability under the FMCA is joint and several for any act committed by two or more persons. The courts can reduce damages for violations to two times the amount of the false claim if they are voluntarily disclosed.

NEW JERSEY

What are the New Jersey False Claims Act, Health Care Claims Fraud Act & Medical Assistance and Health Services Act?
The New Jersey False Claims Act (“NJFCA”) (N.J. Stat. Ann. Title §  § 2A:32C-1 et seq.) is a civil statute that helps the State combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud in the New Jersey Medicaid program. The NJFCA became effective on March 13, 2008. Additionally, New Jersey amended its Code of Criminal Justice to specifically address “health care claims fraud” committed by practitioners or other individuals. The New Jersey Health Care Claims Fraud (“NJHCCF”) (N.J. Stat. Ann. § 2C:21-4.2 et seq.) provisions became effective on January 4, 2006. Violations of a NJHCCF crime are greater in scope and carry more severe criminal penalties than the civil statute. Finally, the New Jersey Medical Assistance and Health Services Act

8 “Material,” is defined as “having a natural tendency to influence or be capable of influencing the payment or receipt of money or property”.

9 Proposed legislation (Senate Bill 1061) would add language clarifying the effective date of the NJFCA, stating it applies to all violations committed before March 14, 2008 provided that: (1) the civil action filed is brought within the applicable statute of limitations; and (2) the violation that is the basis of the claim was not previously the subject of an action involving the NJMAHS, filed by the same claimant under the NJFCA, or the federal False Claims Act.
NJMAHS” (30:4D-1 et seq.) is aimed at providing medical assistance to residents with limited resources, but also provides false claims act like protections in the event of a violation.

Violations of the NJFCA include: (1) knowingly presenting or causing to be presented to an employee, officer, or agent of the State, or to any contractor, grantee, or other recipient of State funds, a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement to get a false or fraudulent claim paid or approved by the State; (3) conspiring to defraud the State by getting a false or fraudulent claim allowed or paid by the State; (4) knowingly delivering or causing to be delivered less public property or money to the State than the amount for which the person receives a certificate or receipt; (5) knowingly making or delivering a receipt for property without completely knowing that the information on the receipt is true; (6) knowingly buying or receiving as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property that a person may not lawfully sell or pledge; and (7) knowingly making or using or causing to be made or used a false, misleading or fraudulent record or statement to conceal, avoid, or decrease an obligation to pay money or property to the State.

“Health care claims fraud” according to the NJHCCF means “making, or causing to be made, a false, fictitious, fraudulent, or misleading statement of material fact in, or omitting a material fact from, or causing a material fact to be omitted from, any record, bill, claim or other document, in writing, electronically or in any other form, that a person attempts to submit for payment or reimbursement for health care services.” Violations of the NJHCCF by a practitioner occur when he/she knowingly or recklessly commits health care claims fraud in the course of providing professional services. A person who is not a practitioner violates the NJHCCF when he/she knowingly or recklessly commits health care claims fraud, or knowingly commits five or more acts of health care claims fraud and the aggregate pecuniary benefit is at least one thousand dollars ($1,000).

Violations under the NJMAHS include any provider, or any person, firm, partnership, or entity who: (1) knowingly and willfully makes or causes to be made any false statement or representation of a material fact in any cost study, claim form, or any document necessary to apply for or receive any benefit or payment under P.L.1968, c. 413; or (2) at any time knowingly and willfully makes or causes to be made any false statement, written or oral, of a material fact for use in determining rights to such benefit or payment under P.L.1968, c. 413; or (3) conceals or fails to disclose the occurrence of an event which (i) affects a person’s initial or continued right to any such benefit or payment, or (ii) affects the initial or continued right to any such benefit or payment of any provider or any person, firm, partnership, corporation, or other entity on whose behalf of a person has applied for or is receiving such benefit or payment with an intent to fraudulently secure benefits or payments not authorized under P.L.1968, c. 413 or in a greater amount than that which is authorized under P.L.1968, c. 413; or (4) knowingly and willfully converts benefits or payments or any part thereof received for the use and benefit of any provider or any person, firm, partnership, corporation, or other entity to a use other than the use and benefit of such provider or such person, firm, partnership, corporation, or entity.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?

The NJFCA contains provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the State. Individuals who report fraud receive between 15% and 25% of the total amount recovered if the government prosecutes the case. Individuals who litigate a case on their own without the government can receive a higher recovery of between 25% and 30% of the proceeds. A court may award such sums as it considers appropriate if the court finds that the action was based primarily on disclosures of specific information not provided by the qui tam plaintiff.

The NJFCA protects employees who report fraud and consequently suffer discrimination by their employer. An individual may be awarded: (1) reinstatement with the same seniority status; (2) two times the amount of back pay; (3) compensation for any special damages; and (4) if appropriate, punitive damages may be imposed. Employers are also responsible for litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees for the employee.
What are the Penalties?

In addition to any other civil, administrative, or criminal remedies that may be prescribed by law, a person who violates the NJFCA fraud provisions is liable for a civil penalty of not less than and not more than the civil penalty allowed under the federal False Claims Act (31 U.S.C. § 3729 et seq.) for each false or fraudulent claim plus three times the amount of damages that the State sustains. The current penalties under the federal False Claims Act are $5,500 to $11,000 per claim. These penalty amounts may be adjusted for inflation pursuant to the Federal Civil Penalties Inflation Adjustment Act of 1990.

A practitioner who violates the NJHCCF is guilty of a crime of the second or third degree, and may be subject to a fine of up to five times the pecuniary benefit obtained or sought to be obtained. A non-practitioner who violates the NJHCCF is guilty of a third or fourth degree crime and may be subject to a fine of up to five times the pecuniary benefit obtained or sought to be obtained, in addition to other criminal penalties allowed by New Jersey law. 10

Further, the NJMAHS provides additional penalties that may apply. For example, any person, firm, corporation, partnership, or other legal entity who violates the NJFCA, shall, in addition to any other penalties provided by law, be liable for civil penalties of: (1) payment of interest on the amount of the excess benefits or payments at the maximum legal rate in effect on the date the payment was made; (2) payment of an amount not to exceed three-fold the amount of such excess benefits or payments; and (3) payment in the sum of not less than and not more than the civil penalty allowed under the federal False Claims Act, as it may be adjusted for inflation, for each claim for assistance, benefits or payment. Further, a violation of subsection (4) of the NJMAHS, as described above, is considered a crime of the third degree.

NEW MEXICO

What is the New Mexico Medicaid False Claims Act, Fraud Against Taxpayers Act & Medicaid Fraud Act?

New Mexico has several applicable statutes to fight false claims. First, is the Medicaid False Claims Act (“MFCA”) (N.M. Stat. §§27-14-1 to 27-14-15) to deter individuals from causing the state to pay false Medicaid claims and provide remedies for obtaining treble damages. The MFCA became effective on May 19, 2004. Next, is the Fraud Against Taxpayers Act (“FATA”) (N.M. Stat. Ann. §§ 44-9-1 to 44-9-14) is a civil statute that helps the State combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud in the New Mexico Medicaid program. The FATA became effective on July 1, 2007. The statutes are very similar, but the main difference is that the FATA is not exclusive to the Medicaid program like the MFCA. Finally, New Mexico maintains a general Medicaid Fraud Act (“MFA”) (N.M.S.A. §30-44-7) that may apply in scenarios involving false claims. The MFA became effective on April 8, 1997.

Violations of the MFCA include: (1) presenting, or causing to be presented, to the state a claim for payment under the Medicaid program knowing that such claim is false or fraudulent; (2) presenting, or causing to be presented, to the state a claim for payment under the Medicaid program knowing that the person receiving a Medicaid benefit or payment is not authorized or is not eligible for a benefit under the Medicaid program; (3) making, using or causing a record or statement to obtain a false or fraudulent claim under the Medicaid program.

10 Assembly Bill 2984 would revise the statute as follows (adding new underlined language as follows): A practitioner is guilty of a crime of the fourth degree involving health care claims fraud if that practitioner, directly or indirectly related to a claim, knowingly waives, rebates, gives, pays, or offers to waive, rebate, give or pay all or part of the deductible, copayment, or coinsurance owed by a covered person pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy between the covered person and that person’s insurance company as defined by section 72 of P.L.2003, c.89 (C.2C:21-4.5)…Otherwise, insurance fraud in violation of subsection a. of this section is a crime of the third degree, unless this fraud involves an act of health care claims fraud pursuant to subsection d. of section 3 of P.L.1997, c.353 (C.2C:21-4.3), in which case it is a crime of the fourth degree, and insurance fraud in violation of subsection b. of this section is a crime of the fourth degree. Each act of insurance fraud shall constitute an additional, separate and distinct offense, except that five or more separate acts may be aggregated for the purpose of establishing liability pursuant to this subsection. Multiple acts of insurance fraud which are contained in a single record, bill, claim, application, payment, affidavit, certification or other document shall each constitute an additional, separate and distinct offense for purposes of this section.

Violations of the FATA include: (1) knowingly present, or cause to be presented, to an employee, officer or agent of the state or a political subdivision or to a contractor, grantee or other recipient of state or political subdivision funds a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; (2) knowingly make or use, or cause to be made or used, a false, misleading or fraudulent record or statement to obtain or support the approval of or the payment on a false or fraudulent claim; (3) conspire to defraud the state or a political subdivision by obtaining approval or payment on a false or fraudulent claim; (4) conspire to make, use or cause to be made or used, a false, misleading or fraudulent record or statement to conceal, avoid or decrease an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or a political subdivision; (5) when in possession, custody or control of property or money used or to be used by the state or a political subdivision, knowingly deliver or cause to be delivered less property or money than the amount indicated on a certificate or receipt; (6) when authorized to make or deliver a document certifying receipt of property used or to be used by the state or a political subdivision, knowingly make or deliver a receipt that falsely represents a material characteristic of the property; (7) knowingly buy, or receive as a pledge of an obligation or debt, public property from any person that may not lawfully sell or pledge the property; (8) knowingly make or use, or cause to be made or used, a false, misleading or fraudulent record or statement to conceal, avoid or decrease an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the state or a political subdivision; or (9) as a beneficiary of an inadvertent submission of a false claim and having subsequently discovered the falsity of the claim, fail to disclose the false claim to the state or political subdivision within a reasonable time after discovery.

Violations of the MFA include: (1) providing with intent that a claim be relied upon for the expenditure of public money: (a) treatment, services or goods that have not been ordered by a treating physician; (b) treatment that is substantially inadequate when compared to generally recognized standards within the discipline or industry; or (c) merchandise that has been adulterated, debased or mislabeled or is outdated; (2) presenting or causing to be presented for allowance or payment with intent that a claim be relied upon for the expenditure of public money any false, fraudulent, excessive, multiple or incomplete claim for furnishing treatment, services or goods; or (3) executing or conspiring to execute a plan or action to: (a) defraud a state or federally funded or managed health care plan in connection with the delivery of or payment for health care benefits, including engaging in any intentionally deceptive marketing practice in connection with proposing, offering, selling, soliciting or providing any health care service in a state or federally funded or mandated managed health care plan; or (b) obtain by means of false or fraudulent representation or promise anything of value in connection with the delivery of or payment for health care benefits that are in whole or in part paid for or reimbursed or subsidized by a state or federally funded or mandated managed health care plan. This includes representations

11 Proposed legislation (House Bill 201) would substantively amend several portions of the MFCA, including revising the definitions, most all violations would now require an intent of “knowingly,” and would change the language provided for qui tam actions and qui tam party rights (including an award to relators).

12 Proposed legislation (House Bill 201) would amend portions of the FATA regarding qui tam actions, relators, and awards.
or statements of financial information, enrollment claims, demographic statistics, encounter data, health services available or rendered and the qualifications of persons rendering health care or ancillary services.13

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
Both the MFCA and FATA contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the State. Individuals who report fraud receive between 15% and 25% of the total amount recovered if the government prosecutes the case. Individuals who litigate a case on their own without the government can receive a higher recovery of between 25% and 35% of the proceeds. An individual is entitled to not more than 10% if the court finds that the action was based primarily on disclosures of specific information not provided by the qui tam plaintiff.

Similarly, both the MFCA and FATA protect employees who report fraud and consequently suffer discrimination by their employer. An individual may be awarded: (1) reinstatement with the same seniority status; (2) two times the amount of back pay with interest; (3) compensation for any special damages; and (4) if appropriate, punitive damages may be imposed. Employers are also responsible for litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees for the employee.

What are the Penalties?
New Mexico law provides multiple opportunities for penalties if a violation of one or more of the above-referenced statutes is found, with some limitations. For example, the application of a civil remedy pursuant to the MFCA does not preclude the application of other laws, statutes or regulatory remedy, except that a person may not be liable for a civil remedy pursuant to the MFCA and civil damages or recovery pursuant to the MFA if the civil remedy and the civil damages or recoveries are assessed for the same conduct by another government agency.

Similarly, the remedies provided for in the FATA are not exclusive and shall be in addition to any other remedies provided for in any other law or available under common law. A FATA violation provides for financial penalties of $5,000 to $10,000 for each violation plus three times the amount of damages to the State may be imposed, as well as the costs of a civil action to recover penalties or damages and reasonable attorney fees. The courts reduce damages for violations if the false claims are voluntarily disclosed. Such civil actions must be brought within four years.

Finally, the remedies under the MFA are separate from and cumulative to any other administrative and civil remedies available under federal or New Mexico law or regulation. Whoever commits Medicaid fraud in violation of the MFA may be subject to both civil and criminal penalties and sentencing procedures. For example, if any person who receives payment for furnishing treatment, services or goods under Medicaid, which payment the person is not entitled to receive by reason of a violation of the MFA, shall, in addition to any other penalties or amounts provided by law, be liable for: (1) payment of interest on the amount of the excess payments at the maximum legal rate in effect on the date the payment was made, for the period from the date payment was made to the date of repayment to the state; (2) a civil penalty in an amount of up to three times the amount of excess payments; (3) payment of a civil penalty of up to ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for each false or fraudulent claim submitted or representation made for providing treatment, services or goods; and (4) payment of legal fees and costs of investigation and enforcement of civil remedies. No action under this section shall be brought after the expiration of five years from the date the action accrues.

13 Proposed legislation (Senate Bill 217) would amend the definition of “Medicaid Fraud” to exclude certain activities, unless accompanied by evidence of culpable mental state, including: (1) a failure to comply with service definitions or guidelines issued by a department or a Medicaid managed care organization; or (2) a breach of contractual terms or provisions.
In addition, someone who violates the MFA subsection (2) is guilty of a fourth degree felony. Someone who commits Medicaid fraud in violation of MFA subsection (1) or (3) when the value of the benefit, treatment, services or goods improperly provided is: (1) not more than one hundred dollars ($100), he or she is guilty of a petty misdemeanor; (2) between one hundred dollars ($100) and two hundred fifty dollars ($250), he or she is guilty of a misdemeanor; (3) between two hundred fifty dollars ($250) and two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500), he or she is guilty of a fourth degree felony; (4) between two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) and twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), he or she is guilty of a third degree felony; and (5) more than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), he or she is guilty of a second degree felony. Further, the MFA states that if the person who commits the Medicaid fraud is an entity rather than an individual, the entity shall be subject to a fine of not more than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) for each misdemeanor and not more than two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) for each felony.

NORTH DAKOTA

What are the North Dakota Medicaid Provider Integrity Laws and Regulations?

North Dakota is one of two remaining states in the United States that has not established a Medicaid Fraud Control Unit overseen by the government. Although North Dakota does not have an official state false claims act, North Dakota’s Medicaid provider integrity laws and regulations impose liability on those who submit false claims for the purpose of obtaining government funds. (See generally Medicaid Provider Integrity, N.D. Cent. Code § 50-24.1-01.3; N.D. Admin. Code §§ 75-02-05-01 to 75-02-05-08; 72-02-06-02(4); Remedies N.D. Cent. Code §§ 32-03-01 to 32-03-56; and Whistleblower Protections, N.D. Cent. Code §§ 34-01-20; N.D. Cent. Code § 50.10.1-05; and N.D. Admin. Code § 75-03-25-13, prohibiting retaliatory action for providing information to the long-term care ombudsman).

These North Dakota laws can apply to Medicaid reimbursement and prohibit the following: (1) presenting a false or fraudulent claim; (2) submitting false information to obtain greater compensation than what is entitled; (3) submitting false information for the purpose of meeting prior authorization requirements; (4) submitting a false or fraudulent application to obtain provider status; (5) submitting false Medicaid cost reports; (6) failing to disclose records of services provided to Medicaid recipients; (7) failing to comply with the terms of the Medicaid provider agreement; (8) over utilizing the Medicaid program by inducing or providing unnecessary services; and (9) participating in kickbacks or rebates.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?

North Dakota law only allows civil lawsuits to recover monetary filed by the government, not individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs). There is no provision for a private citizen to share a percentage of any monetary recoveries.

North Dakota also has laws that prohibit both private and public employers from retaliating or discriminating against employees for their good faith disclosure of information pertaining to a violation of a law, or their participation in an investigation. Employees may bring a civil lawsuit for injunctive relief or actual damages (or both) if he suffers retaliatory action. The court may award reinstatement, back-pay, injunctive relief, reinstatement of fringe benefits or a combination of remedies.

What are the Penalties?

Violations can result in sanctions by the North Dakota Department of Human Services, including recovery of overpayments, termination from participation in the Medicaid program, and prosecution under applicable state or federal laws.

14 Proposed legislation (House Bill 1226 and House Bill 1227) would create and enact new laws relating to the creation of a Medicaid fraud control unit the Attorney General’s office (adding four new sections to chapter 54-12 of the North Dakota Century Code); and provide a penalty for Medicaid fraud (adding a new section to chapter 12.1-31 of the North Dakota Century Code).
Ohio

What are the Ohio Laws?

While Ohio does not have a false claims statute closely paralleling the federal False Claims Act, Ohio has a collection of laws that serve the same purpose to prevent the commission of fraud (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. §§§ 2913.40 to 2913.401; 2921.13; 4113.52; 2307.65).

The chief actions that violate this law are (1) knowingly making or causing to be made a false or misleading statement or representation for use in obtaining reimbursement from the medical assistance program, (2) purposefully and knowingly charging, soliciting, accepting or receiving any property, money or other consideration in addition to the amount of reimbursement under the medical assistance program to which the person would otherwise be entitled, (3) purposefully and knowingly soliciting, offering or receiving any remuneration, other than authorized deductibles or co-payments, in cash or in kind, including, but not limited to, a kickback or rebate, in connection with the furnishing of goods or services for which whole or partial reimbursement is or may be made under the medical assistance program, and (4) knowingly altering, falsifying, destroying, concealing, or removing any records within six years after submitting a claim under the medical assistance program that are necessary to fully disclose the nature of all goods and services on which the claim was submitted or for which reimbursement was received or that are necessary to disclose fully all income and expenditures upon which rates or reimbursement were based.

Ohio law prohibits false statements made in connection with an application for Medicaid eligibility. (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. § 2913.401). In particular, no person shall knowingly (1) make false or misleading statements in a Medicaid benefits or disclosure application or document, (2) conceal an interest in property in a Medicaid benefits or disclosure application or document, or (3) fail to disclose a transfer of property that occurred during the period thirty-six months before submission of the application or document.

Ohio law also prohibits the making of false statements in many situations, including (1) in any official proceeding, (2) with the purpose of securing government benefits, (3) with the purpose to mislead a public official in performing the public official’s official function, and (4) with the purpose of obtaining an Ohio’s “best Rx program” enrollment card. (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. § 2921.13).

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?

The Ohio laws described above do not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state.

However, private employees are afforded whistleblower protections (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. § 4113.51 to 4113.53). For example, employers are prohibited from taking any “disciplinary or retaliatory action against an employee for making any report…disciplinary or retaliatory action by the employer includes, without limitation, doing any of the following: (1) Removing or suspending the employee from employment; (2) Withholding from the employee salary increases or employee benefits to which the employee is otherwise entitled; (3) Transferring or reassigning the employee; (4) Denying the employee a promotion that otherwise would have been received; or (5) Reducing the employee in pay or position.” (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. § 4113.53).

What are the Penalties?

(A) The attorney general may bring a civil action in the Franklin county court of common pleas on behalf of the department of Medicaid, and the prosecuting attorney of the county in which a violation of division (B) of section 2913.401 of the Revised Code occurs may bring a civil action in the court of common pleas of that county on behalf of the county department of job and family services, against a person who violates division (B) of section 2913.401 of the Revised Code for the recovery of the amount of benefits paid on behalf of a person that either department would not have paid but for the violation minus any amounts paid in restitution under division (C)(2) of section 2913.401 of the Revised Code and for reasonable attorney’s fees and all other fees and costs of litigation (Ohio Rev. Code Ann. § 2307.65) Violations of Section 2913.40 (related to Medicaid fraud), Section 2913.401 (related to Medicaid eligibility fraud), and Section 2921.13 (related to certain false statements) result in penalties ranging from a first degree misdemeanor to a third, fourth or fifth degree felony, depending on the value of the property, services or funds obtained.

A person found guilty of violating Section 2913.40 may have to pay the costs of the investigation and prosecution of the violation. A person found guilty of Section 2913.401 can be compelled to make restitution of the amount of benefits received for which the applicant or recipient was not eligible (plus interest). A person who violates Section 2921.13 is liable in a civil action to any person harmed by the violation. The remedies set forth in Sections 2913.40, 2913.401, and 2921.13 do not preclude the use of any other criminal or civil remedy.

OREGON

What is the Oregon False Claims Act & False Claims for Health Care Payments Act?
The Oregon False Claims Act ("OFCA") is a civil statute designed to help the state government combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud against public agencies. (Or. Rev. Stat. Ann. § § 180.765 to 180.785). The OFCA became effective on January 10, 2010. Also, Oregon has a False Claims for Health Care Payments Act ("OFCHCP") (O.R.S. §§165.690 to 165.698) which works to fight false claims for health care payments. The OFCHCP became effective in 1995.

Violations of the OFCA include: (1) presenting or causing to be presented for payment or approval a claim that the person knows is false; (2) in the course of presenting a claim for payment or approval, making or using a false record or statement that the person knows to contain, or to be based on, false or fraudulent information; (3) agreeing or conspiring with other persons to present for payment or approval a claim that the person knows is a false claim; (4) delivering, or causing to be delivered, property to a public agency in an amount the person knows is less than the amount for which the person receives a certificate or receipt; (5) making or delivering a document certifying receipt of property used by a public agency, or intended to be used by a public agency, that the person knows contains false or fraudulent information; (6) buying property of a public agency from an officer or employee of a public agency if the person knows that the officer or employee is not authorized to sell the property; (7) receiving property of a public agency from an officer or employee of the public agency as a pledge of an obligation or debt if the person knows that the officer or employee is not authorized to pledge the property; (8) making or using, or causing to be made or used, a false or fraudulent statement to conceal, avoid or decrease an obligation to pay or transmit moneys or property to a public agency if the person knows that the statement is false or fraudulent; or (9) failing to disclose a false claim that benefits the person within a reasonable time after discovering that the false claim has been presented or submitted for payment or approval.

Violations of the OFCHCP occur when a person, defined as an individual, corporation, partnership or association providing health care services or any other form of legal or business entity providing health care services, does the following: (1) knowingly makes or causes to be made a claim for health care payment that contains any false statement or false representation of a material fact in order to receive a health care payment; or (2) knowingly conceals from or fails to disclose to a health care payor the occurrence of any event or the existence of any information with the intent to obtain a health care payment to which the person is not entitled, or to obtain or retain a health care payment in an amount greater than that to which the person is or was entitled.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The OFCA does not contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with original information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state. Actions may be brought by the Oregon Attorney General on behalf of the state. All damages assessed for violations of the OFCA are awarded to the state. Similarly, violations of the OFCHCP may be prosecuted only by the district attorney or the Attorney General.
What are the Penalties?
A claim for violating the OFCA must be brought within three years after the date that the officer or employee of the public agency charged with responsibility for the claim discovers the violation. Courts are instructed to award to the state all damages arising from a violation of the OFCA, as well as a penalty equal to the greater of $10,000 for each violation or an amount equal to twice the amount of damages incurred for each violation. Courts may also award attorney’s fees and costs of investigation, preparation and litigation to the state if the state prevails. Damages are calculated using the market value of the property, services or benefits obtained by the person who made the claim at the time and place of receipt or delivery. If the market value cannot be established, damages may be calculated using the replacement value or through another measure that reasonably estimate damages incurred.

The penalty portion of the award may be mitigated if the defendant is also subject to fines or penalties for substantially the same acts and omissions under the Federal False Claims Act or the Federal Civil Monetary Penalties Law. In addition, the penalty may not be imposed if the defendant (1) provided the Attorney General with all the information known to the defendant about the violation within 30 days of acquiring the information, (2) fully cooperated with the Attorney General in the investigation, and (3) at the time the defendant provided the Attorney General with information about the violation, a court proceeding or administrative action related to the violation had not commenced. If a court finds that an act or omission of an individual on behalf of a corporation constituted a violation of OFCA, the court may impose a separate penalty against both the individual and the legal entity.

Although the OFCHCP does not have its own set of penalties, the statute requires that the prosecuting attorney must notify the Oregon Health Authority and any appropriate licensing boards of a person convicted under the OFCHCP.

PENNSYLVANIA

What are the Pennsylvania Fraud and Abuse Control Act & Pennsylvania Whistleblower Law?
Pennsylvania maintains a Fraud and Abuse Control Act (“PFAC”) (62 P.S. § 1401 et seq.) aimed at protecting the state Medicaid program from incidents of provider fraud and abuse through the use of civil and criminal penalties. Generally, the PFAC prohibits false claims, kickbacks, services not provided, and various types of provider claims.

Among other enumerated activities, the PFAC prohibits any person from: (1) knowingly or intentionally presenting for allowance or payment any false or fraudulent claim or cost report for furnishing services or merchandise under the Medicaid program; (2) knowingly presenting for allowance or payment any claim or cost report for medically unnecessary services or merchandise under the Medicaid program; (3) knowingly submitting false information, for the purpose of obtaining greater compensation than that to which he or she is legally entitled for furnishing services or merchandise under the Medicaid program; or (4) knowingly submitting false information for the purpose of obtaining or furnishing services or merchandise under the Medicaid program. Additionally, the PFAC disallows: (1) submitting a duplicate claim for services, supplies, or equipment for which the provider has already received or claimed reimbursement from any source; (2) submitting a claim for services, supplies or equipment which were not rendered to a patient; (3) submitting a claim for services, supplies or equipment which includes costs or charges not related to said services, supplies or equipment rendered to the patient; (4) submitting a claim for services, supplies, or equipment which are not documented in the record in the prescribed manner and are of little or no benefit to the recipient, are below the accepted medical treatment standards, or are unneeded by the patient; (5) submitting a claim which misrepresents the description of services, supplies or equipment dispensed or provided; the dates of services; the identity of the recipient; the identity of the attending, prescribing or referring practitioner; or the identity of the actual provider; (6) submitting a claim for reimbursement for a service, charge or item at a fee or charge which is higher than the provider’s usual and customary charge to the general public for the same service or item; or (7) submitting a claim for a service or item which was not rendered by the provider.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
Separate from the PFAC, Pennsylvania has a Pennsylvania Whistleblower Law (“PWL”) (43 P.S. §§ 1421 to 1428), which provides protection from discrimination and retaliation to any person who witnesses or has evidence of wrongdoing or waste while employed by a public body and who makes a good faith report of the wrongdoing or waste to one of the person’s superiors, to an agent of the employer or to an appropriate authority. The PWL further provides that no employer may discharge, threaten or otherwise discriminate or retaliate against an employee after he makes such a good faith report. Further, after making a report to the appropriate authorities, the authority is prohibited from disclosing the identity of the whistleblower without his/her consent, unless in specified circumstances.

What are the Penalties?
Any person who violates the PFAC is guilty of a felony of the third degree for each such violation with a maximum penalty of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) and seven years imprisonment. Whenever any person has been previously convicted in any state or Federal court of conduct that would constitute a violation of the PFAC, a subsequent allegation, indictment or information under the PFAC shall be classified as a felony of the second degree with a maximum penalty of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) and ten years imprisonment. In addition, the trial court shall order any person convicted under the PFAC to: (i) repay the amount of the excess benefits or payments plus interest on that amount at the maximum legal rate from the date payment was made by the Commonwealth to the date repayment is made to the Commonwealth and (ii) pay an amount not to exceed threefold the amount of excess benefits or payments. Further, any person convicted under the PFAC shall be ineligible to participate in Medicaid for a period of five years from the date of conviction.

If a violation occurs, the state has the authority to immediately terminate, upon notice to the provider, the provider agreement and to institute a civil suit against such provider for twice the amount of excess benefits or payments plus legal interest from the date the violation occurred. Providers who are terminated from participation in Medicaid are prohibited from owning, arranging for, rendering or ordering any service for Medicaid recipients during the period of termination. In addition, such provider may not receive, during the period of termination, reimbursement in the form of direct payments from the state or indirect payments of Medicaid funds in the form of salary, shared fees, contracts, kickbacks or rebates from or through any participating provider.

Furthermore, if retaliatory actions arising out of a PFAC violation in turn violate the PWL, it can yield additional civil penalties, including a fine of not more than $10,000.

SOUTH DAKOTA

What is the South Dakota Unlawfully Obtaining Benefits or Payments from Medical Assistance Program Law?
Currently there is no state false claims act in South Dakota. However, the state does have a law entitled “Unlawfully Obtaining Benefits or Payments from Medical Assistance Program” (S.D. Codified Laws §§ 22-45-1 to 22-45-11). This law imposes liability on persons or organizations that make or cause to be made false Medicaid claims to the government for payment, or who make or cause to be made a false record or statement to get a claim or invoice paid by the government.

This South Dakota laws can apply to Medicaid reimbursement and prohibit (1) making a false claim to the state for payment; (2) making any false representation in order to obtain authorization to provide a good or service; (3) making any false representation for use by another in order to obtain a Medicaid good or service; (4) making a false statement to qualify as a Medicaid provider; (5) submitting any Medicaid enrollment application, cost
What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
Currently, unlike the federal law, South Dakota law only allows lawsuits to be filed by the state government and not private individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs). There is no provision for a private individual to share a percentage of any monetary recoveries.

Whistleblower protections used to exist in South Dakota but have since been repealed by the legislature.

What are the Penalties?
A violation of the South Dakota law must be brought within six years from the cause of action accruing. Penalties in South Dakota include payment of interest on the amount of the excess payment, a civil penalty of $2,000 for each false claim or statement, and/or up to three times the amount of damages, including the cost of investigation and litigation.

In addition, violations of these laws are punishable as a Class 5 felony. The intentional failure to retain the necessary records upon which a Medicaid claim or payment rate is based is a Class 1 misdemeanor. Violations of any of these laws may also result in termination from participation in the Medicaid program.

TENNESSEE

What is the Tennessee Medicaid False Claims Act, Tennessee False Claims Act & TennCare Fraud and Abuse Reform Act?
Tennessee has multiple false claims acts. The Tennessee Medicaid False Claims Act (“TMFCA”) (Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 71-5-181 to 71-5-185) combats fraud and recovers losses but applies solely to false claims under the Tennessee Medicaid program, and was recently amended to mirror the federal law. The TMFCA became effective on July 1, 1993. The Tennessee False Claims Act (“TFCA”) (Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 4-18-101 to 4-18-103) helps the state combat fraud and recover losses resulting from fraud in programs, purchases, or contracts. It applies to claims that involve funds of the state or any political subdivision. The TFCA became effective on July 1, 2001. Finally, Tennessee maintains a TennCare Fraud and Abuse Reform Act of 2004 (“TFAR”) (T. C. A. § 71-5-2501 et seq.) which aims at preventing fraud and abuse of the state Medicaid program, called TennCare.

Violations of both the TFCA and TMFCA can include: (1) knowingly submitting a false claim for payment or approval, (2) knowingly making or using a false record or statement to get a false claim paid or approved, (3) conspiring to defraud the state by getting a false claim allowed or paid, or (4) knowingly making or using a false record to conceal or avoid payments owed. In addition, anyone who benefits from a false claim that was mistakenly submitted violates the TFCA if he or she does not disclose the false claim soon after he or she discovers it. The TFCA also broadly prohibits using any false representation or practice to procure anything of value from the state government or any political subdivision.

A violation of the TFAR occurs when a person, firm, corporation, partnership or any other entity: (1) knowingly obtains, or attempts to obtain, or aids or abets any person or entity to obtain, by means of a willfully false statement, report, representation, claim or impersonation, or by concealment of any material fact, or by any other fraudulent means, including knowingly presenting or causing to be presented to TennCare or any of its contractors, subcontractors or vendors a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval, or in any manner not authorized by any rule, regulation, procedure, or statute governing TennCare, medical assistance payments provided pursuant to any rule, regulation, procedure, or statute governing TennCare to which the person or entity is not entitled, or of a greater value than that to which the person or entity is authorized; or (2) provides a willfully false statement regarding another’s medical condition or eligibility for insurance, to aid or abet another in obtaining or attempting to obtain medical assistance payments, medical assistance benefits or any assistance provided under any rule, regulation, procedure, or statute governing TennCare to which the person is not entitled or to a greater value than that to which such person is authorized.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?
The TFCA and TMFCA contain provisions that allow individuals (or qui tam plaintiffs) with “original” information concerning fraud to file a lawsuit on behalf of the state. This means that a qui tam plaintiff must (1) have direct and independent knowledge of the information on which the allegations are based, (2) voluntarily provide this information to the state or political subdivision before filing an action based on that information, and (3) have provided the basis or catalyst for the investigation, hearing, audit, or report that led to the public disclosure of allegations. (22 Tenn. Prac. Contract Law and Practice § 13:72 (2012)).

Individuals who report fraud receive between 25% and 33% of the total amount recovered if the government prosecutes the case under the TFCA and between 15% and 25% under the TMFCA. Individuals who litigate a case on his or her own without the government can receive a higher recovery.

Both the TFCA and TMFCA contain important protections against retaliation for whistleblowers. Employees who report fraud and consequently suffer discrimination by their employer may be awarded: (1) two times their back pay plus interest, (2) reinstatement at the seniority level they would have had except for the discrimination, and (3) compensation for any costs or damages they have incurred, including litigation costs and reasonable attorneys’ fees. Under the TFCA, the employer may also be liable for punitive damages.

What are the Penalties?
Financial penalties of $2,500 to $10,000 per claim plus two to three times the amount of damages to the state or political subdivision may be imposed for TFCA violations. Penalties of $5,000 to $25,000 per claim plus treble damages may be imposed for TMFCA violations. The courts can waive penalties and reduce damages for violations if the false claims are voluntarily disclosed.

An individual who violates subsection the TFAR is guilty of either (i) a Class B felony when the value of the services unlawfully obtained is between sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) and two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000); (ii) a Class C felony if the value of the services unlawfully obtained is between ten thousand dollars ($10,000) and sixty thousand dollars ($60,000); or (iii) a Class D felony when the value of services unlawfully obtained is between one thousand dollars ($1,000) and ten thousand dollars ($10,000). Additionally, in addition to any other penalty, a sentence that includes a fine, when imposed upon an entity or upon a person for actions benefiting an entity shall include a corporate fine, determined by a jury, as follows: (a) for a Class B felony, between eight (8) and fifteen (15) years imprisonment and a fine not to exceed fifty thousand dollars ($50,000); (b) for a Class C felony, between three (3) and fifteen (15) years imprisonment and a fine not to exceed ten thousand dollars ($10,000); (c) for a Class D felony, between two (2) and twelve (12) years imprisonment and a fine not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000).

In addition to any other penalties provided for any person, firm, corporation, partnership or other entity under the TFAR, the court may also: (i) order restitution to TennCare; (ii) report the person or entity to the appropriate professional licensure board or the department of commerce and insurance for disciplinary action; (iii) order any such person or entity disqualified from participation in the medical assistance program; and (iv) the state may recover from any person or such person’s estate, or from a firm, corporation, partnership or other entity, the amount of medical assistance benefits or payments improperly paid as a result of fraudulent means or actions not authorized by any rule, regulation, procedure, or statute governing TennCare. Prosecutions for violations of the TFAR must be commenced within four (4) years after the commission of the offense.

What are the Qui Tam Provisions and Whistleblower Protections?

Texas provides for robust whistleblower protections and a person, including an employee, contractor, or agent, who is discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, or in any other manner discriminated against in the terms and conditions of employment because of a lawful act taken by the person or associated others in furtherance of an action under the TMFPA, including investigation for, initiation of, testimony for, or assistance in an action filed or to be filed, or other efforts taken by the person to stop one or more violations of Texas Medical Assistance Program is entitled to: (1) reinstatement with the same seniority status the person would have had but for the discrimination; and (2) not less than two times the amount of back pay, interest on the back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result of the discrimination, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney’s fees. However, a person must bring suit on an action under this section not later than the third anniversary of the date on which the cause of action accrues (the date the retaliation occurs).

What are the Penalties?
Violators of the TMFPA are subject to civil penalties ranging $5,500 to $11,000 for each violation. The TMFPA also provides for penalties ranging from $5,500 to $15,000 for unlawful acts that result in injuries to elderly, disabled, or persons under the age of 18.

Violators may also be held liable for the amount of any payment or the value of any monetary or in-kind benefit provided under the Medicaid program, directly or indirectly, as a result of the unlawful act, including any payment made to a third party; interest on the amount of the payment or the value of the benefit at the prejudgment interest rate in effect on the day the payment or benefit was received or paid, for the period from the date the benefit was received or paid to the date that the state recovers the amount of the payment or value of the benefit; and two times the amount of the payment or the value of the benefit.

What are the Penalties?
Violators of the WHCFCA are guilty of a Class C felony. (Rev. Code Wash. § 48.80.030). Additionally, regulatory and disciplinary agencies will be informed of the conviction. At a maximum, violators of the WMFFCA face a civil penalty of up to $5,500 to $11,000, plus three times the amount of damages which the government entity sustains. The Washington Attorney General will annually adjust civil penalties to match the federal false claims act. Additionally, a violator is responsible for the costs of litigation. (Wash. Rev. Code Ann. § 74.66.020). At a minimum, the court must award no less than two times the amount of damages incurred, even if (1) the violator came forward with relevant information within 30 days of obtaining it; (2) the violator fully cooperated with the investigation; and (3) or the violator had no actual knowledge of the investigation into the violation and at the time, no criminal, civil or administrative action had commenced.
